Halachic Note about This Year's Etrogs

For those who purchased Etrogs grown in Israel, we have the unique privilege this year of fulfilling the Mitzvah with Etrogs that were grown during the Shemitah year, and have Kedushat Shevi'it. Therefore, after Sukkot, allow them to dry before wrapping them in paper and composting them. It is not advisable to use them for food or drink, since their sanctity needs to be preserved. These concerns are only relevant to fruit, and therefore don't affect the other three species.

Halachic Note about This Year's Etrogs

For those who purchased Etrogs grown in Israel, we have the unique privilege this year of fulfilling the Mitzvah with Etrogs that were grown during the Shemitah year, and have Kedushat Shevi'it. Therefore, after Sukkot, allow them to dry before wrapping them in paper and composting them. It is not advisable to use them for food or drink, since their sanctity needs to be preserved. These concerns are only relevant to fruit, and therefore don't affect the other three species.

Halachic Note about This Year's Etrogs

For those who purchased Etrogs grown in Israel, we have the unique privilege this year of fulfilling the Mitzvah with Etrogs that were grown during the Shemitah year, and have Kedushat Shevi'it. Therefore, after Sukkot, allow them to dry before wrapping them in paper and composting them. It is not advisable to use them for food or drink, since their sanctity needs to be preserved. These concerns are only relevant to fruit, and therefore don't affect the other three species.

For those who purchased Etrogs grown in Israel, we have the unique privilege this year of fulfilling the Mitzvah with Etrogs that were grown during the Shemitah year, and have Kedushat Shevi'it. Therefore, after Sukkot, allow them to dry before wrapping them in paper and composting them. It is not advisable to use them for food or drink, since their sanctity needs to be preserved. These concerns are only relevant to fruit, and therefore don't affect the other three species.

For those who purchased Etrogs grown in Israel, we have the unique privilege this year of fulfilling the Mitzvah with Etrogs that were grown during the Shemitah year, and have Kedushat Shevi'it. Therefore, after Sukkot, allow them to dry before wrapping them in paper and composting them. It is not advisable to use them for food or drink, since their sanctity needs to be preserved.
